

North Bengal International University
Department of Computer Science and Engineering
B.Sc. Engineering 25th 26th 27th Batch Midterm Examination, Autum 2026

Course No.: CSE 0613-2221

Course Title: Management Information System

Full Marks: 20

Time: 1 hour

- N.B.: (i) All questions are of equal value
(ii) Answer any two questions from the followings
(iii) Assume reasonable value for missing data, if any
(iv) Figures in the margin indicate full marks

	Marks	CLO	PLO
1. a) Define EMS.	2	CLO1	PLO1
b) Describe three primary resources involved in MIS.	4	CLO1	PLO1
c) Imagine your university wants to become a Smart University. The university already has separate systems for: • Student admission • Attendance • Examination • Accounts • Library • Teacher information Identify the problems might occur if these systems are not integrated?	4	CLO2	PLO2
2. a) State the benefits of MIS in an organization.	4	CLO1	PLO1
b) A farmer in Rajshahi produces mangoes but does not know: • Current market prices • Customer demand • Best selling locations • Which buyers are reliable Explain an Agricultural MIS that could help farmers make better decisions.. MIS includes Data → Information → Decision → Action.	4	CLO2	PLO2
c) State the differences between functional perspective and structural perspective.	2	CLO1	PLO1

P.T.O.

- | | | | | |
|-------|---|---|------|------|
| 3. a) | Describe the characteristics of MIS | 4 | CLO1 | PLO1 |
| b) | Bangladesh's garment industry depends on a complex supply chain involving raw material suppliers, garment manufacturers, transport companies, ports, international buyers, and retailers. Suppose a Bangladeshi garment company is facing the following problems: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Raw materials are arriving late.• Production is being delayed.• Finished products are waiting too long for transportation.• Customers are receiving products late. | 6 | CLO2 | PLO2 |
- i. Identify the major stages of the company's supply chain.
- ii. Predict three technological solutions that could improve efficiency of the garment supply chain in Bangladesh.